PROJECT NO. 171 ~~4~~

JUDGE                      House
"Irving Hockaday" Home

This residence located in Calloway County, Fulton, Missouri, was built in the year 1821 by Judge Irving Hockaday.

Judge Hockaday was one of the early settlers in Calloway County.

He was a very prominent man socially and said to be very charitable.

President Thomas Jefferson ~~and his son were~~ <sup>ad</sup> entertained in this house by Judge Hockaday

Judge Hockaday's son John was at one time Attorney General, also Senator.

The property now belongs to Irma Johnson.

The original structure was a two story log house - it has been frame covered in more recent years.

Information received from George Hockaday.
